Madam,

Re: Provision of Accommodation to Trainee Assistants

We understand that the Induction Training for newly recruited Assistants starts from tomorrow i.e. 7th of February. We are informed by our units that these Assistants have been advised by their respective offices to make their stay arrangements at their own cost. The Office, we are given to understand, will only provide food during the course of training. We do feel that when Class I Officers and Apprentice Development Officers are provided accommodation during their training periods, Class III employees should not be discriminated against. Our offices should make arrangements for their accommodation during the course of training especially because the candidates are being asked to join immediately on receipt of the Appointment Letter. The new recruits who will be undergoing training are Probationary Assistants and as such the circulars applicable to them may kindly be adhered to by our offices.

We request your personal intervention on the issue so that a positive decision is taken in this regard.

Thanking You,

Yours faithfully

Shreekanth Mishra

General Secretary
